Capitol Hill Office Buildings – Open to Public

Currently, there are no restrictions for the public to enter the House and Senate Office Buildings. Restrictions put in place in recent years requiring escorts in the office buildings have been removed. Access to the U.S. Capitol remains limited to official tours, which can be requested at the U.S. Capitol Visitors Center on the South side of the Capitol.

Basecamp for Hill Meetings

The cafeterias in the basement of the Longworth House Office Building and the Dirksen Senate Office Building are recommended locations to sit down for a few minutes to rest or get a snack in between meetings. Our GoWest Advocacy team will endeavor to have someone available in these locations if you need assistance or have questions while on the Hill.

Identification and IDs

Please ensure you have a valid driver's license or passport with you as we go to the Hill. You may be asked for identification to gain entrance to the buildings.

Transportation in and around Washington, DC

Most transportation can be accomplished by using the Metro, Uber, Lift, or traditional taxis. There is no need to rent a vehicle unless you have a personal reason to venture outside the beltway. Additionally, parking can be challenging and expensive in the D.C. metro area.

Attire for Meetings

Business attire is requested for all meetings on Capitol Hill during the week of CUNA GAC.
